First call for papers

International Congress on Archaeological Sciences in the Eastern Mediterranean and the Near East (ICASEMNE)

29 April – 1 May 2010

Paphos, Cyprus

Deadline for abstracts: 15 November 2009

The Science and Technology in Archaeology Research Center (STARC; <http://starc.cyi.ac.cy/>) of the Cyprus Institute (<http://www.cyi.ac.cy/>) is pleased to announce an open call for papers for the International Congress on Archaeological Sciences in the Eastern Mediterranean and the Near East (ICASEMNE). This international congress aims to highlight recent advances in natural and material science applications to archaeology and cultural heritage in the Eastern Mediterranean and the Near East, and to provide an international academic forum, hitherto not available, for dissemination of results of current research in these fields in the region. The congress is addressed to the international scientific community of archaeologists, archaeological scientists, and researchers applying natural and material sciences to archaeology and cultural heritage in the Eastern Mediterranean and the Near East.

Congress topics: Papers (podium or poster presentations) on all aspects of research on natural and material science applications to archaeology and cultural heritage in the Eastern Mediterranean and the Near East are welcome. Problem oriented, comparative studies, as well as papers addressing advances, problems and potential on regional and local scales are also called for. The geographical scope of the workshop is inclusive, encompassing the Eastern Mediterranean, the Middle East, and Southwest Asia. The chronological scope ranges from the earliest prehistory to medieval and historical periods.

Conference dates: 29 April - 1 May 2010

Conference location: Paphos, Cyprus

Deadline for paper/session abstract submissions: 15 November 2009

Abstract submission to: archsci2010paphos@cyi.ac.cy
